Translation

Has any of the AAP's research during the last year uncovered the potential for development of a new drug, vaccine, diagnostic test/procedure, medical device or any other therapeutic intervention?	Yes/No

Wellcome wants the outputs of the research we fund to be managed and used in ways that maximise their potential to deliver future health improvements. In each case the best tool (e.g. intellectual property protection and exploitation, or making data and other outputs freely available) to help deliver such improvements should be identified and used.

If you indicate that your research could realise a potential health impact a member of Wellcome staff will follow up with you to learn more and explore ways in which we can help you translate your ideas to maximise its impact. We are interested to hear about all translational aspects of your work, and if you have any key updates beyond the specific areas listed in this section, please capture these in your overall progress update in the Progress report section.

If yes, please give a brief description.
