A new School workforce survey in Wales presents the opportunity to collect data that would provide the Welsh government and other stakeholders with a more detailed picture of the workforce and lead to more effective interventions. We suggest collecting the following data:

1. Nationality of teachers
   This would help identify trends in the school workforce, in particular an increasing reliance on teachers from overseas. This is important for workforce planning and anticipating changes in recruitment and retention patterns as migration patterns change.

2. Qualifications, including Subject knowledge enhancement (SKE) courses
   Qualifications give a good indication of subject expertise. SKE courses should be considered an indication of expertise, but they are currently not picked up in existing school workforce surveys.

3. Hours taught by specialists (e.g. teacher with undergraduate degree or higher or a SKE course in related subject)
   It is important to gain an understanding of the extent to which pupils experience teaching from someone with subject expertise.

4. Number of days in past year used for continuing professional development (CPD)
   CPD is a crucial element of effective teaching. Currently it is difficult to quantify how much CPD teachers undertake. Collecting this information would generate a more accurate picture which would aide interventions to increase CPD amongst teachers.

5. Prior occupation (if not higher education leaver)
   This would contribute to a fuller picture of teacher recruitment, which could lead to more targeted interventions.

6. Destination after leaving role (where possible)
   This would help generate a fuller picture of teacher retention and potentially help inform interventions to address workforce-leavers.

7. Collecting data at the local level
   Being able to break data down by local authority area would enable the Welsh government and others to identify specific areas that are, for example, struggling with recruitment, and would help ensure interventions were carefully targeted.

8. Use of temporary staff (teachers)
This would provide greater detail on staff shortages and what schools are doing to address them.

9. Rate of vacancies by subject and age group taught
   This would help generate a clearer picture of staff shortages, preferably broken down by local area.

Question 5 – We would like to know your views on the effects that the draft regulations proposed would have on the Welsh language, specifically on:

i) opportunities for people to use Welsh

ii) treating the Welsh language no less favourably than the English language.

What effects do you think there would be? How could positive effects be increased, or negative effects be mitigated?

Supporting comments
Question 6 - Please also explain how you believe the proposed draft regulations could be formulated or changed so as to have:

i) positive effects or increased positive effects on opportunities for people to use the Welsh language and on treating the Welsh language no less favourably than the English language

ii) no adverse effects on opportunities for people to use the Welsh language and on treating the Welsh language no less favourably than the English language.
